

Lullabye (Parody of "Lullabye" by Billy Joel)

Good night beloved, time to close your eyes
Sufficient was the evil for this day
Your Father knows what trials you have faced
With every testing He has made a way

God promised He would never leave you
And you will always know
He is so merciful
Though your house be not so
He puts your sins so far away

Good night beloved, now it's time to sleep
Our path shines brighter each and every day
Remember all of His deliverances
His righteous judgments prove the words we say
He crushed our enemies before us
He gives us all sweet sleep
Takes us through waters deep
And from a broken heart
He made our eyes His truth to see

Do do do do...

Goodnight beloved, now it's time to dream
We'll sing new songs upon the glassy sea
Our tears will all be dry, upon the Saviour's breast we'll lie
These robes of flesh, we will shed, for our new body

Our going out is done
There'll be no need of this earth's sun
But in God's light, we will dwell, for eternity