American churches are in a sad state, evidenced by the microcosm of Methodist churches in St. Louis. Both Salem United Methodist and Grace United Methodist prop up women preachers all the while the UMC church organization professes a tenet to “bear a faithful Christian witness to Jesus Christ”. How do you reconcile these verses to your women preachers?

Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church. (1Cor. 14:34-35)

In these verses, the Apostle Paul clearly teaches there should be no women preachers in the churches. The Bible has many examples of spiritually strong females, but never do they lead a church. So, we beseech you to bear that faithful Christian witness to Jesus Christ you profess by removing those women and establishing leaders in accordance with the Bible standard of a bishop or deacon, to wit: the husband of one wife, who rules his children and own house well, and more – see 1Timothy 2.

Like many of their sister congregations, a cursory glance at their websites reveals a trend to be all-inclusive to those in the open, proud sins of homosexuality and same-sex marriage. These silly Methodists at their unscriptural conventions think they need to “decide” or “vote” on the issues that the Lord God Almighty has already pronounced judgment. Let’s be honest and just admit that you make your own standards, rather than follow the standards of the Bible. Shame! That’s a dangerous path, my friends!

He that rejecteth me [Christ], and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day. (John 12:48) (emphasis added)
